[redacted]:Currently arranged on one level the property the house has oversize rooms throughout, including the impressive lounge and dining room with open fireplace. There is a fully functioning kitchen which is high end, though from the property's original construction. The gardens of the property are extensive and immaculately maintained, with a huge swimming pool as well as a chiringuito area with bar and barbecue. There is a large two car garage as well as ample private, off street parking. The property would benefit from some modernisation works, and is very well located within walking distance of amenities on a private street in El Paraiso.
