TOLOX Tolox is a typical Andalucian white village and a gateway to the stunning Parque Natural Sierra de las Nieves, a wild and beautiful protected area with breath-taking scenery. Tolox is an unspoiled town of much charm: peaceful for the most part, with a few notably manic local festivals that the whole village enjoy. It is a picturesque small town in which the flowers, white houses and long streets come together to create a charming environment for the residents and visitors alike. The village is earning some local fame as the site of the Fuente Amargosa Health Spa. Standing at the entrance to the spectacular nature (and hunting) reserve of the Sierra de las Nieves, the spa makes use of the water which flows at the rate of 15,000 litres a day from the mountains and is said by its aficionados to work wonders with respiratory ailments and allergies. Friendly and welcoming the town is home to Spanish locals and ex pats from all northern Europe and the peaceful way of life, traditional restaurants and bars and breath-taking location make it an ideal town for those looking for a holiday or permanent home in Real Spain.
